It's April! This means that there are just a few more weeks left of summer. We are preparing to rescue more children and register them for school. The last few weeks of summer will be spent working to get ready for school. This means buying uniforms and paying tuition for each semester. In Thailand, public schools are not free. No matter if a child goes to a private or public/government school there is always a price to pay. In Thailand, like other corrupt places, it's all about the money and less about helping and educating. That is why we also teach our children different trades, languages, finances, and other things to help them walk into their Promised Land.

Donate

Thank you so much to our donors. So far this year we have been able to raise 40% of our yearly budget and 7% of our goal for a new house. We thank God that He has given us you to help us reach the needs of the children we rescue. We are excited to see what the future holds! The children send their love and thanks! Thank you for your continued support!

Meet Sittaya

Sittaya is one of our house parents. She is more like a house sister to the girls since she is in Jon and Gey's house in Thailand. We have four houses that the girls are divided between. Right now we are spread out but one day we hope to be in one central location. Sittaya is a big help to the organization because she has a heart for God and a heart for the children. She wants to see God change them and God change her nation. Sittaya also serves as the youth pastor at one of our churches. She has a desire to see the lost saved and desires to disciple others in the Word. Sittaya sends her love and thanks to each of you and hopes that one day she can meet you in-person. She prays that God blesses you and keeps you. You have blessed us and God will bless you. Thank you for your support and love.
